Dear Ellen,

After we spoke last Friday I packed the book and when we left for supper left it, as I told you I would, by the kitchen door, with a large note saying it was for you.

Not counting Saturday and Sunday after 5 p.m. when I've been away I did this, but today I forgot it when we left a little before 12. Seeing no note I assumed your pickup man was not here. We were not gone long.

I tried to phone you yesterday but the operator said ABC takes no reverse calls.

I do not know if you are still interested. If you want me to mail it, I do that daily anyway.

Meanwhile, I'll continue to expect the pony express and will try to remember to leave it where it is visible.

Best wishes,

Harold
